WALKING MAP

Rocky, the owl, was miraculously found in the 2020 Rockefeller Center Christmas tree. She was sent to the Ravenbeard Wildlife Center here in Saugerties to be rehabilitated & released. 35 local artists have created colorful Rocky sculptures to be displayed on the streets of the Village & Town from Memorial Day until Labor Day. There will be an online auction through the summer and a live auction in September.

About the Ravenbeard Wildlife Center

Over a span of 20 years of public service, Ravenbeard has supported the wildlife from the surrounding communities of Woodstock, Saugerties and Kingston. Ellen J. Kalish is the Founder and Executive Director of Ravens-beard Wildlife Center, a wildlife rehabilitation and educational center that focuses on rescue and release for wild birds. In caring for animals, we promote community awareness, education, appreciation, compassion and acceptance of the circle of life. Ravenbeard Wildlife Center is located in Saugerties, New York and has been successfully running as a non-profit organization for the past two decades. Ellen was licensed in 2000 with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) and was Federally licensed through the US Fish & Wildlife Service in 2002 to work with migratory birds.
In spring of 2017, Ellen accepted the William R. Ginsberg Stewardship Award from the Woodstock Land Conservancy, for her service of rehabilitating and releasing our wild birds back into nature, and for her educational programs with wild, non-releasable birds of prey.
